Medicine Chief Message

September saw some unique changes to the Nemenhah Band and Native American Traditional Organization (NAC). The Great Council of the Nemenhah Community met at the Mother's Lodge in Central Utah and amendments to the Constitution of the Band were discussed and approved. Also, the FDA has made changes that are far reaching and which cause the Nemenhah to arise to the forefront of the effort to save Natural healing. Big things all, so let's just take them one at a time. Constitution of the Band – The Council has made the following constitutional changes by amendment and you should download a complete copy of the Constitution of the Band from the Band Website.

1) Majority – Consensus was approved and adopted by the Council. In all matters requiring a vote, after all debate and discussion is complete, the members of the Council are asked to express their approval of the measure by raising their hand in a fist with the thumb extended upwards and they are counted. Then the members of the Council are asked to express their disapproval by raising their hand in a fist with thumb extended downward and they are counted. Then the Council is asked if there are any who do not agree but do not require any other to agree with them to raise the hand in a fist with the thumb extended to the side and they are counted. When there are no more thumbs down, Consensus is reached and the measure passes. If there are any lowered thumbs it is an indication that the matter still needs discussion.

2) Medicine Chief – Upon recommendation of Cloudpiller, the Council discussed the need to change the title “Hereditary Medicine Chief” to “Elected Principle Medicine Chief.”

3) Distinction between Men and Women – The Council determined to make a study of the Constitution and find all areas where distinction is made between men and women. All such distinction is to be abolished and wording chosen that will convey the principle of equality and balance.

4) Qualification of Leadership – The Council engaged in a lengthy discussion of what ought to qualify the leadership of the Lodges, Communities and Band in general. It was determined that the nomination alone qualifies any person of good intention to serve in leadership positions of the Band.

Many issues were brought up which might become subjects of subsequent Councils but many of which would be more appropriate for discussion at the local level. This accomplished, the local units could then send delegates or recommendations to the Great Council.

There was some procedural confusion as to the manner in which subjects are discussed in Council and these were clarified. One thing that really rose to the surface at the Council was that the majority of the Council Members had not read the constitution or that they were unfamiliar with what they had previously read. To rectify this, a copy of the amended constitution will be placed on the website for public access.

FDA Category Change

The FDA has recently assailed companies in the Food Supplement industry claiming that they are out of compliance. Justification for these actions comes from recent switch of substances formerly classed as GRAS (Generally Regarded As Safe) into OTC (Over The Counter Drugs) which require approval. This change places all natural healing at the crossroads and we need to redouble our efforts to become actively engaged in protecting our right to natural healing as part of our Spiritual Orientation. The only way to do this is to contact your friends and colleagues right now and let them know of the program. Because of NAFERA, Native American Practitioners are exempted from CAFTA, CODEX and the FDA, insofar as they commit no capital crime. The ceremonial use of natural healing materials and modalities cannot be classed as capital crimes any more than James Mooney's ceremonial use of a schedule one controlled substance (illicit drug) could be classed as capital. The Supreme Court has already decided it. Let's bury or fear and step up to the plate. We can save natural healing or we can do what we've always done and cower in fear. If we stand up like humans and declare our beliefs, then we will save natural healing. If we cower and cringe like cattle, we can expect to be treated as cattle.

I am traveling the country preaching the message of Nemenhah. Lodges are forming all over the continent. If you are a part of one of these important new units, then you are to be congratulated. If you are not, then you are to be reproved. Wake up and get involved! You can do this be contacting the Principle Stone Carrier of your local Lodge. If there is no local Lodge, then form one! It's that simple.

The Life is in the Blood

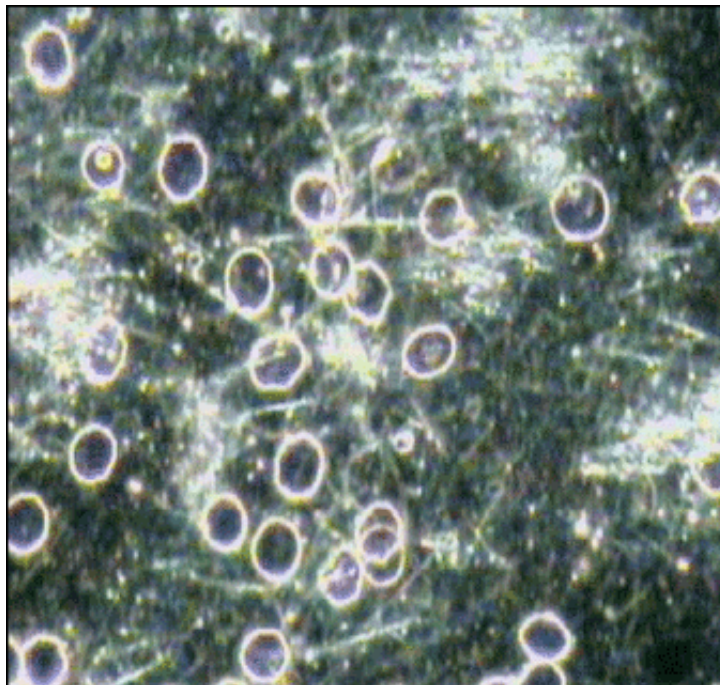

by Helaman (Hunts-The-Wind) Andra.

Through the study of blood we can learn a lot about the state of health of the body as a whole. The blood passes through every part of our bodies and is marked by its environment and conditions it is exposed to.

First we look at the red blood cell. We look for irregular shapes and sizes as well as how they interact with each other. By observing these we are able to see forms that point to Free-radical activity, PH imbalance, Lack of minerals and iron, Lack of basic nutrition, Dehydration, Poor Digestion and buildup of toxins, Degenerative disease and Linage.

Next we look at the white blood cells. We look for how many, how active or non active and what kinds. By observing these we are able to see signs of how the immune system is working or not working. We are able to see if it is fighting a bacteria or viral attack or inflammation.

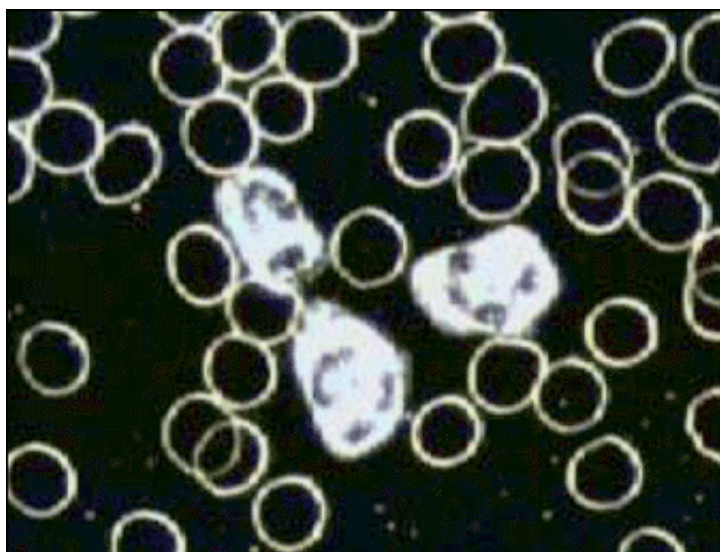

Next we look at what is between the cells. Here we see many forms such as heavy metals, platelets, and various forms of the Endobiont, fats, Uric Acid, Formaldehyde, toxins and bacteria. We may see signs of Blood toxicity and leaky gut.

Blood with heavy Fibrin (cloudy white strands).
(Taken under Darkfield Microscope.)

The first pathogenic form they take is Fibrin and is caused by the PH dropping below 6.8. The Fibrin is sticky and gathers together in webs often around platelets for nutritional reserves. These webs trap and restrict the flow of the red blood cells preventing them from effectively transferring oxygen to the tissues. This web, by restricting the flow of blood, often results in high blood pressure as the heart tries to move it through the body. The Fibrin may gather in the joints, connective tissues, muscles and organs. This contributes to, and in many cases is the cause of Fibromyalgia and arthritic conditions. To reverse this state we need to raise the PH to the neutral zone and hold it there and the Fibrin will break up and return to its regulatory form.

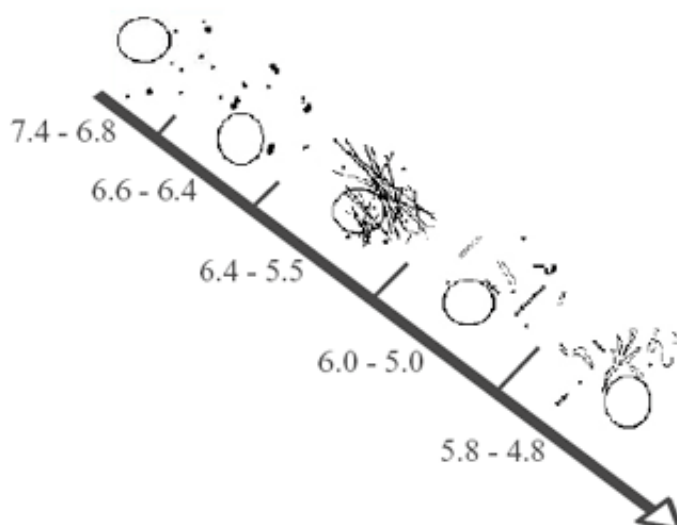

Dust to dust, ashes to ashes. When our PH drops below 6.0 our body sends the message that we are dead or dying and need to be decomposed. How can you be in a state of health if your body is decomposing itself from the inside?

A sample of healthy blood. The tiny white dots are known as Endobiont (Protit form). The large white masses are neutrophil white blood cells and the smaller rings are red blood cells.

(Taken under Darkfield Microscope.)

The Endobiont is a microorganism [Mucor racemosus fresen] that lives within every cell of our bodies that has any fluid. It is a soil mold and lives within all soil on every continent on earth. It has many forms that it may take depending on the terrain in which it lives. In a state of health the Endobiont takes on a regulatory form and acts as our first line of immune defense by competing with other virus, bacteria and fungal forms for food and territory. We call this form a Protit. It also cleans our cells by eating garbage in our blood. They are essential to good health. When the PH drops they start to take on other forms by holding hands and nationalizing. When this happens they cease to act as our first line of defense and cleanup crew. When we die this is the organism that decomposes us.
